The Twilight Singers, Railroad Lullaby

do you remember when i told you that i had a tale to tell? let me regale you, child about a life spent on the rail forget me not, don't forget it cuz i'll be gone in a minute... and whenever the drugstore man used to come around i'd bite my lip and then i'd take myself to town forget me not, don't forget it cuz i'll be gone in a minute... don't call me no more, no more nobody ever needs ya when you're this far gone now you say the train's a'comin' but i don't see it on the track last train's eleven and it ain't comin' back forget me not . . .
