Thomas Dybdahl, Rain Down On Me

when you're young everything's easy it's a summerbreeze, you're alive but times they change everything's rearranged summer moves on, nothingcan stop these tears from falling love is deep, love is wide i'm still here by you're side let it all rain down on me it happened too soon lay you're head down upon my shoulder let it all rain down on me it happened too soon lay you're head down upon my shoulder (i'll keep you warm when the nights grow colder) don't hold back i know it's not easy everyone gets a little scared but time will heal even a heart of steel so don't try to run i'll try to stop tou're tears from falling love is deep, love is wide i'm still here by you're side let it all rain down on me it happened too soon lay you're head down upon my shoulder let it all rain down on me it happened too soon lay you're head down upon my shoulder (i'll keep you warm when the nights grow colder) i'll always be by your side holding you close holding you tight i'll always be by you're side let it all rain down on me it happened too soon lay you're head down upon my shoulder
