

Thunder, You Can't Live Your Life In A Day

Talking to a friend of mine this morning
He told me how his life was gonna change
All the reaching for the skies
And dreams unrealised
Had left him alone with his pain
And he just couldn't face it again

I said, don't you believe in tomorrow?
'Cause today's just a scene in the play
You might get some bad breaks and you'll make your mistakes
But you can't live your life in a day

Fifteen years old and on the outside You got your face against the window looking in Old enough to see, but too young to be free in a grown up world loaded with sin

And your folks, they don't get your frustration
'Cos they can't recall feeling that way
So you fight, and you hate, but you'll just have to wait
'Cos you can't live your life in a day

It always seems life went so fast when it's gone but when you're waiting for something it drags no and on You can't take no comfort when everyone says You'll look back and laugh at today

I said, don't you believe in tomorrow?
'Cause today's just a scene in the play
ou might get some bad breaks and you'll make your mistakes
But you can't live your life in a day

cause tomorrow will always be coming it's the one thing they can't take away and you'll lose and you'll win and you'll do it again
But you can't live your life in a day
No you can't live your life in a day
No you can't live your life in a day