

Tie-Dye Quartet, Summer Blossom

Summer blossom, spread your petals wide

This is the time that you have waited for

Time for growing, rise up to the sun

Soon your thorn will be a rose

Summer blossom, open up your eyes

This is the time you thought would never come

Now you're ready so let the sun pour in

So tell me blossom, does this feel all right?

Is it everything that you dreamed of?

Spring eternal, the time that time forgot

Soft as grass so new and fresh

Winter's coming but not for many years

This is the time the old folks all talk of

Burning brightly now seared into your heart

Darkness falls, (and the) sun's gone away

You've lost your colours to the night

Now you know the truth

There's more than one summer and there's more than one sun

Summer blossom, spread your petals wide

This is the time that you have waited for

Time for growing, rise up to the sun

Soon your thorn will be a rose
