

Tim Christensen, Let's Face It

It's OK to be blue
No one can take the memories away from you
It's alright to be sad as long as you hold on to the dreams you have

It's alright to be down
Your rollercoaster will soon be upward bound
It's OK you should know
Tomorrow will be there for you even though

Let's face it
Nothing could ever replace it
It's wasted
But something else will come along

It's alright to be alone
Nobody else could fit into your bones
You're no freak, it's OK
It's only natural that I hear you say

It's wasted
Nothing could ever replace it
Let's face it
But something else will come along

When the lifeline's slipping through your hands
It's a matter of holding on though no one understands
It's a matter of being who you are
So stand up now, don't you let them tear your soul apart
Go on, you superstar

It's alright in the end
It's where you're going, not where you have been
All in all, it's OK
It's only natural that I hear you say

It's wasted
Nothing could ever replace it
Let's face it
But something else will come along

Let's face it
Nothing could ever replace it
It's wasted
But something else will come along
