

Tim McGraw, Unbroken

(Holly Lamar, Annie Roboff)

If I lived and breathed before you loved me, I don't recall

If I walked around at all, it was in bits and pieces

Of a jagged heart

You kissed me and every piece went back in place, every pain got erased

You held me up to the sunlight,

now it feels like,

No one ever left me out in the rain

Cold words still remain unspoken

And I never got lost, spent years in the dark

You're here, now my heart's unbroken

When I see your smile fill my soul again

I'm unbroken

If I doubted the power of love, baby now I understand

I thank God for every day I wake up to the soft touch

Of your magic hands

In this world sometimes the only thing that's real,

Is the way you make me feel

Babe, the changes day and night

I swear it's life

No one ever left me out in the rain

Cold words still remain unspoken

I never got lost, spent years in the dark

You're here, now my heart's unbroken

When I see your smile fill my soul again

I'm unbroken

I still see the night, I fell into your eyes

And when we made love it felt like the first time

No one ever left me out in the rain

Cold words still remain unspoken

And I never got lost, spent years in the dark

You're here, now my heart's unbroken

When I see your smile fill my soul again

I'm unbroken

I'm unbroken

I'm unbroken

No one ever left me out in the rain

Cold words still remain unspoken

And I never got lost, spent years in the dark

You're here, now my heart's unbroken - X2
