Tim McGraw, Why We Said Goodbye

I remember sunday mornings walking on the beach And that place we'd stop for breakfast with the old red vinyl seats The hours of the tide chart The way the sunlight dance upon your face

That antique roller coaster you just had to ride I remember how you laughed at the terror in my eyes The color and the detail Just like it was yesterday

And i remember how you held me the night my father died I didn't have to tell you I just broke down and cried You're sewn into the fabric, the pieces of my life And i just can't remember why we said goodbye

Up and down this boardwalk lonely people sit I know it wasn't perfect but nothin' ever is The sails out in the harbor Are searching for the wind

I just had to call you, i had to hear your voice And tell you i still love you we still have a choice You're sewn into the fabric, the pieces of my life And i just can't remember why we said goodbye

Everything i do Leads back to you I know i just can't let us go

There must have been a reason, but i can't remember now I know if i could hold you we could work it out You're sewn into the fabric the pieces of my life And girl let's give it one more try Cause i just can't remember why we said goodbye
