

Tim Minchin, Summer Romance

Wind blows
But I refuse to close the windows
Whether I'd enough for one day
Let the leaves fall where they may
I'm holding on

Coatless
I'm heading out even though I know it's hopeless
I'll take my battle to the streets
Umbrella-less but undefeated
I'm holding on
I am holding on

Time wraps her arms around me like one of those timelapse
Photographic sequences of autumn
Sending in her debt collectors to wreak havoc on the trees of Hargate Woods
But I'm holding on
I am holding on
For one more day of sun

Sunlight
Bullied by the clouds as I run
Night is
Nipping at the heels of afternoon
It'll all be over soon
So I'm holding on
I am holding on

For one more day of sun
One more day of sun
These moments never last
We both know that it's true
I love you you're beautiful

It was just a summer romance
Now our time is through
I love you you're beautiful

These moments never last
We both know that it's true
I love you you're beautiful

It was just a summer romance
Now our time is through
I love you you're beautiful

These moments never last
We both know that it's true
I love you you're beautiful

It was just a summer romance
Now our time is through
I love you you're beautiful

These moments never last
We both know that it's true
I love you you're beautiful

It was just a summer romance
Now our time is through
I love you I love you I love you I love you I love you
It was just a summer romance
