

Time And Distance, Snap

stole my ticket to dallas, said i couldn't have this..
you said i'd never make it there,
but i'm calling from a pay phone there..
caught a ride from a friend who said she didn't mind to pretend to be a spanish driver..
and she looks like minnie driver.. and i think that she cares for me the way i used to care for you..

in the center of it all again,
don't ask,
worry,
or we'll never win..
because the world is just a stage,
and this letter's just a page long.. much longer than the one before,
the one you left crumpled on my bathroom floor..
it said 'don't go anywhere..'
too late,
i'm already there..

and i think that she loves me,
but i wish you loved me too.

life on the edge is hard enough,
i don't want to worry about what's going on with you..
don't wanna miss my rendezvous with rhonda..
she booked my flight to san jose,
but we both know that's not a place in mexico..
but it's a place i'd like to go..

and i think we're getting married tomorrow..
so do you have three hundred dollars i could borrow?