Time Machine, Where's My Heaven?

from the time of the heretic back to the age of the cyber web wearing the stole of an Anglican priest in New England-so they call this land

two thousand one and still nothing has changed mankind is dragging in corruption and sin lined up like cans of meat up on a shelf stacking in their houses there's sex on TV in the mist of an empty life they just clock in each day

children abused on the screen as a rule technology serves euro chemical wars cops getting killed by the squad of the mayor if this isn't Hell, tell me what can be Hell? as a core of a senseless life they just clock in each day

tenebraum
rex sigillum in oculos impii ponit qui obscuritatem vitat eum vaniis blanditiis temporis proximae vitae et angelici gregis donans

two thousand one and still nothing has changed mankind is dragging in corruption and sin lined up like cans of meat up on a shelf stacking in their houses there's sex on TV in the mist of an empty life they just clock in each day

where's my heaven? Life is Hell where's my soul that should live forever where's my heaven? Life is pain where's the dream that will last forever?
where's my soul that should live in a world of light and love until The End
