

Tokio Hotel, On The Edge

It's getting light outside
She is still there
But no one cares

They sang her happy birthday yesterday
Without her
Do you want to see yourself flying through
The night

This gift is what you'll need
You're gonna be alright
Eyes closed and fall

The first time on the edge
The scars will stay forever
Side to side with death
The moment that feels better
Darkness and light
Are blinding her sight
She's not coming back

It's getting light outside
She cannot sleep

'Cause time stands still
Someone's hand is touching her
She has no will

Each time when it hurts
She just feels so alone
She doesn't care at all
Her memories have Long gone
Eyes closed and fall

And closer to the edge
The scars will stay forever
Side to side with death
The moment that feels better
Darkness and light
Are blinding her sight
She's not coming back

She shuts the door
She longs for more
And more
And more

She shuts the door
She longs for more
And more
And more
Just once more

Everyone is watching her
Her arms are so sore
But she doesn't care
Anymore

And falling from the edge
The scars will stay forever
Side to side with death
The moment that feels better
Darkness and light

Are blinding her sight
She's not coming back
Not coming back

The sky is casting over
Her last wish
Stays unsaid