

Toni Childs, Hush

Sarah says it's not too late when running out of words to say no-one can believe it's soul time when no-one else can see the light of day close your eyes and go to sleep put away those tired dreams quiet now all in your heart let all the joy begin to start holding out your heart in anger holding out your heart not faking holding out your love to him girl all the thinks you think you'll win you want love, you need love the struggle and the power it's harder just to make it and it's all that we can try I believe in love just what can be in your mind young man says it's not too late just put away that violent pain

but it's all that we can try and the good love is so ruly and without love, loving truly and when we lie, and when we cry it's all that we can try
