

Toni Childs, Stop That Fussin

stop your fussin

Toni Childs, David Ricketts

why you look so sad when the sky is perfect blue and you're getting everything you ever wanted to let's not talk about the bad times we've been through that before it's not right for making love anymore

just stop your fussin boy please stop your fussin boy for your time will come yes your time will come can you lay me down in meadows soft and green and can you lay me down and talk to me of things like stars that burn into the night and moons that turn with purple lines that's what I want

your time will come can't you just stop your fussin, boy

can someone tell me why it is how we could spend so many lonely years when there's a light at the end of life it's enough it's enough it's enough it's enough to try we can see the light
we can feel the warmth we can see it shine we can see it all in our lifetime so why you look so sad

you ever wanted, too

just stop your fussin
we can see it in our lifetime
