

Tony Iommi, The Innocence

I'm not the one who will say your name
When said and done, it is all the same
You followed me down a distant lane
You left a scar and it still remains
Who is the one that will take it away
I am feeling the healing hand
What have I done? I've been dying to say
I am feeling the healing hand
I am the innocence and I will never forgive
I am blind but I see, cos I know who you are
I am the innocence, and I will never forgive
In my soul I can feel, cos I know who you are You've gone too far, and you can't come back
And now I know, that I once did lack
I count the days, but you're always here
I'm in a haze, and I disappear
Who is the one that will take it away
I am feeling the healing hand
What have I done? I've been dying to say
I am feeling the healing hand
I am the innocence and I will never forgive
I am blind but I see, cos I know who you are
I am the innocence, and I will never forgive
In my soul I can feel, cos I know who you are