

Toploader, Let The People Know

running high,
leave behind the shadows in your mind into the beginning of your life society breeds hatred in your heart, but baby it's time to make a brand new start life's everchanging in your eyes but the time for rearranging will arise through the rain and snow let the people know, let the people know the way and when it's time to go let the people show, let the people show the way living high, pushing back the boundaries with a smile effortless but only for a while a deity comes to you in the night lightens up your day without a fight and lifes still everchanging in your eyes

chorus

if the people want to know - show them the way if the people got to know - show them the way flying high, you left behind the shadows in your mind the sun came out and put them out of time the rhythm you can feels in time with mine so come on baby lets go for a ride and life still keeps changing in your eyes but changes come and go - and so do I Repeat chorus.
