

Tori Amos, Angels

and with a wink
and a smile
you toss your instructions on how to catch a train while it's moving
you always were the one that kept us all guessing how you could survive the fall you had

from medicine men
to my dj friends
they all have said
"he's got to watch his back"

they're trapping angels
by the potomac
but it's not how you think you'd be surprised
they liberate
your dreamscape
till you can't remember
to recall
where your wings
have gone
tell me where they've gone

from jordan to chicago
another child is born trusting that we'll get it right this time i should've worn my glasses you said just to trust then you chose to sign the dotted line

from modern magdalenes
to my dj friends
they all have said
"he's got to watch his back"

they're trapping angels
by the potomac
but it's not how you think
you'd be surprised
they liberate
your dreamscape
till you can't remember
to recall
where your wings
have gone

before i close my eyes at night i can still see you smilin' before the truth was buried alive
did we prize it before you change the world maybe boy you should change your girl

they're trapping angels
by the potomac
they're trapping angels

lord i know this
they're trapping angels
by the potomac
but we're getting closer i said we're getting closer to where they've gone
tell me where they've gone

now it won't be long