Trace Adkins, Someday

I am grounded But I have wings to fly I just don't use them I just look up in the sky And keep 'em hidden Bound up in a coat and tie 'Til the world is ready for a man with wings to fly But I will fly someday I'll break these feet of clay Then I'll be on my way My way I am feeling Though I do not shed a tear My eyes are dusty Though I have faced my fear of fears I am shaken by the coming on of the years I am a feeling man but I cannot shed a tear But I will cry someday I'll break these eyes of clay Then I'll be on my way, my way Someday Oh someday I am loving Though I make my bed alone I've had lovers But I have no one of my own But I could feed her From the garden I have grown I am a loving man though I make my bed alone But I will love someday I will break this heart of clay Then I'll be on my way, my way Someday On my way, someday I'm gonna love someday