

Trans Atlantic Crush, Baby Goodbye

Got up this morning, a little courage and some faith
I stared at the bedroom, at the place where you laid
And the sound of laughter is all gone away
And it's hard to face the truth, but it's time that I say
Baby Goodbye
Giving up the fight, don't care who's wrong or right
Another Sunday morning, I feel the sun against my face
And it seems a little better now, funny what time can erase
And did you know, the things you gave in love, I've thrown them away
I hear the voice inside with pride I can say
Chorus
