

Transit, Analucia

In your eyes money is the only route to happiness.
Keep on following that lonely road down darkened streets you'll travel alone.
You got to break that towering wall and light a fire inside your chest for a heart that's been so cold.
I heard something about you today.
I couldn't believe my ears what was that you said?
Well it made me lose my breath.
I had to drown it out and I know we all just want to live again but our hearts are slowly weakening.
You can't stay here.
Well I can see the flames in your eyes confessing that you're burning from the inside.
I watch your eyes fill up with smoke your laughter fades and you start to choke on empty words and empty promises.
I'm not going to wake you.
Well sometimes life doesn't go as planned.
and its sad but I wish you lived a thousand miles away from here
I'll call you up sometimes but I never want to see your face again.
I'm not going to wait for you so don't wait for me.
sometimes life doesn't go as planned.
I know its sad but I wished that you lived a thousand miles away from here
I'll call you up sometimes but I never want to see you again.