

Trapt, Everything To Lose

So is it true, are they better than you?
Are you playing it cool?
Lips sealed, holding back the truth
So hard to make it through
That past always catches up with you
So afraid of what you'll do..
When no one's there to help you choose

And if you ever decide to speak the truth, now
When they cast their first stones, they will cast them at you
They will cast them at you

A-lone in a crowded room
Forever fading out at you
Laid down so they can dance (all over you)
You only have everything to lose
At home in an old costume
That mask you wear is wearing you
You've found a new romance
You only have everything to lose

A certain charm you do not possess
I know you can't confess
Who feels sick of your distress
Some things will never change
Deep under the ground you make your way
The choice has just been made
Sit back and fucking pray

And if you ever decide to speak the truth, now
When they cast their first stones, they will cast them at you
They will cast them at you

A-lone in a crowded room
Forever fading out at you
Laid down so they can dance (all over you)
You only have everything to lose
At home in an old costume
That mask you wear is wearing you
You've found a new romance
You only have everything to lose
Everything to lose

When they cast their first stones
When they cast their first stones...
They will cast them at you
They will cast them at you...
They will cast them at you....

Cast them at you!

A-lone in a crowded room
Forever fading out at you
Laid down so they can dance (all over you)
You only have everything to lose
At home in an old costume
That mask you wear is wearing you
You've found a new romance
You only have everything to lose
Everything to lose!
Everything to lose!

Everything to lose