

Treble Charger, Trinity Bellwoods

It started out in a half meet, have none
To find a place where you don't know someone
And you say something kind but you don't say why
And the best you can find is a well-placed lie

It's fitting this had to be so twisted
You got there late and I guess you missed it
And you tried and you lied but your intent shows
And I come to rely on a young man's hopes

Secrets ride through the air
Tempting us like a dare
It's not unlike for the sake of night today
You might escape as to somehow find a way
We're not unlike in the words we'd like to say

It all comes down to some patience and trust
Trinity Bellwoods all around us
And I cried and I tried to get on your side
And you tried and you cried 'cause you can't decide

People come to their own conclusions
We enter this under no illusions
And we wait for the fate that we can't let die
And we say that it's late but they still rely

Secrets move through the air
Catches us unaware
It's not unlike for the sake of today
You might escape as to somehow find a way
We're not alike in the words we'd like to say
