

Trembling Blue Stars, Old Photographs

I fell in love with you
Then I fell in love with, too
Everything you'd ever done
And old photographs
They just made me love you more
Now they have me longing for
A place I'll never hear your name
Your past as well as you
Captured my heart, too
Everyone you'd ever been
On your way to me
You I couldn't know enough about
But your life now
I'm hurt by the smallest detail

I read words you wrote in a diary years ago
That I loved because they were yours
And they're now words that have me think
"There she is" - that show me the you I miss
Whose return I'm always waiting for

I may not have changed as much
But I'm not quite who I was when together we were
For I can see I pushed for years
I'm haunted now by every tear
Every single tear I caused you
For one thing I would chase you
I'd chase you now
I'd chase you now