

Trish Thuy Trang, Only Time Will Tell

Only time will tell the way that it goes.
You just never know the way it flows
Whether we will see another day.
I know I'll survive the games that you play.

I lived inside your empty walls.
You took my soul you took it all.
I never dreamed that you would be.
So torn apart in misery.
But I'm strong, stronger than you know.
And I've learned, learned to let you go.

CHORUS

Only time will tell the way that it goes.
You just never know the way it flows
Whether we will see another day.
I know I'll survive the games that you play.

All my dreams are blowing into the wind.
I just got to find my wings again.
Life is full of endless mysteries.
Only time will tell the way it'll be.

The little girl you'd always see.
Is just a distant memory.
You left me hanging by a string.
But I let go and now I'm free.
On my way, to a different place.
Gotta face, face another day.
