Trisha Yearwood, A Lover Is Forever

I think I understand
The reason you won't stay with me
You think a ring upon your hand
Will solve your insecurity

So go ahead and play your games If that's what you must do Nothing here remains the same But the way I feel for you

I can watch you walk away And I know that I'll get by And I know just what to say But honey I can't tell a lie

So figure out what you must do I know you think you're so damn clever You can marry any time you want But a lover is forever

I can watch you walk away And I know that I'll get by And I know just what to say But honey I can't tell a lie

Figure out what you must do I know you think you're so damn clever You can marry any time you want But a lover is forever

You can marry any time you want But a lover is forever
