

Tristan Prettyman, Maybe I'm The One

I would return your calls but you don't call me anymore I could call to say hello but I deleted your number, long time ago we never talked about anything much just the usual such and such we never talked about "you and I"; or why the stars hang low in the sky well I might have been the one to give your money a little run but you ran as fast as you came and maybe I'm the one to blame when I see you out at night I will not look your way didn't I play it off so well you looked, but my look, well it never came but you could have been the one make me come all undone

but you ran as fast as you came maybe I'm the one to blame maybe I would have done the same...