Tsunami Bomb, In This Together

"Take a look around the room, eyes red from crying No one knows what is true, then I see you I can't even try to convey how safe I am (When you're around me) You donate your strength when I am broken

Like a tiny grain of sand, I'm insignificant Who is a foe, who's a friend, and who pretends For his or her own benefit and all the while I know (You're thinking of me) Even when I'm alone, you're thinking of me

Sometimes I wish I could become a painting on the wall Watch the people passing by, they don't notice me at all Wish I could disintegrate like a fading dream You remind me that you're by my side, and you're thinking of me

You take my heart, I'll take your hand"