

Typecast, The Infatuation Is Always There

i understand what you're trying to say no need to say it i am leaving but don't walk away just stay right there i'll fall. and i'll just look at you i'll just look at you i don't know why i always feel like this it's hard to breathe when you're around your big blue eyes are drowning me to sleep the space is tearing me i'll stay, please stay words are not important smiles are all i need from you the yearning, it's getting stronger i m dumb. i hope you like me too you're two tables away you could see me mesmerised i want to talk to you but im so scared before i never cared, infatuation's never there but now it's killing me i really hate myself
