Lunacy's back
Lunacy's back
Lunacy's back with his pony and trap and his big mouth
He's asked through the years with his tears and his fears in a hen house

Hung on a star, his cigar is suspended from his lips His coat is a moat and his bread is the lead that keeps him there

Bizarre is killed in a drawer in the deep sheets of his bed His head is the hat reaches up from the mat made of yeti His drinks are all laced with the liquid dye traces of his love

Lunacy hid in the skin of a gasoline rainbow Is where he was claimed as a trainee explainer of madness He melted a picture of sane peoples bubbles When that sunny-eyed lightning, explaining their troubles The business world's puddles reflecting their true Venusian doubles
