

Ugly Casanova, Spilled Milk Factory

Tease your neck, kiss your spitless mouth
If you have another taste
Carry my body, drive your rider home
If you take another bad bet

Mumbled had a rumble and I stumbled down the stairs
Smellin' just like lumber but my baby don't care
We went uptown, downtown, everywhere between
There was so much spilled milk we could've had a factory

Silver poor house, plastic lungs, my bones,
If you take another look
Gills of wine, slow on five, I know
When you're railing on another, baby

Sweat basted teenagers lookin' all around
I see your babies crawlin' all over the ground
They go, "goo-goo, gaa-gaa", what the hell's that mean?
Not even know where I am, so don't go look for me

Tease your neck, kiss your spitless mouth
If you have another taste
Carry my body, drive your rider home
If you take another bad bet

Things go dark, light, dark, light, day after day
The flies weren't invited but they wouldn't go away
The blanks were filled in filled out but nothing complete
There were so many dreams that there was no time to sleep

Silver poor house, plastic lungs, my bones,
If you take another look
Gills of wine, slow on five, I know
When you're railing on another, baby

Not a point to make, dodged a bullet, dredged the lake,
I had one bite of wedding cake and I about threw up
I see bridesmaids, bridesmaids hunting for a man
One more drink and I think I'll marry him

Tease your neck, kiss your spitless mouth
If you have another taste
Carry my body, drive your rider home
If you take another bad bet

Mumbled had a rumble and I stumbled down the stairs
Smellin' just like lumber but my baby don't care
We went uptown, downtown, everywhere between
There was so much spilled milk we could've had a factory

Silver poor house, plastic lungs, my bones,
If you take another look
Gills of wine, slow on five, I know
When you're railing on another, baby