Ultravox, Fear In The Western World

Your picture of yourself is a media myth Underneath this floor we're on the edge of a cliff Someone told me Jesus was the Devil's lover While we masturbated on a magazine cover

Dead in the streets Who's that girl? Ireland screams Africa burns

Suburbia stumbles

The tides are turned
I can feel the fear in the Western world
I can feel the fear in the Western world
I can feel the fear in the Western world

I can feel the fear in the Western

The Western world

Mama's still on valium, Daddy puts the news on

TV orphans laugh at the confusion The audience finds itself on the stage Fifty million people in a state of decay (Chorus)

The party goes on behind elevator doors While the elevator plummets from the 69th floor All the cars lost in the scrapyards of paradise The newspaper photographs have all come alive (Chorus)

I can feel the fear in the Western world I can feel the fear in the Western world I can feel the fear in the Western world I can feel the fear in the Western
