Umphrey's McGee, 2x2

One lies in waiting for One mind who wants for more Four arms plain for one goal Two more will make one whole, but when?

And it comes on slow
And it folds all you know
Yet it seems so far
When all is gained or lost
What will measure mine?
Could I leave it now
When so tired am I
What is suffering?

Eight arms slave for one goal Two more will make one whole We have questions of control Could I be bought or sold today?