Unjust, Dark

father holds ways to another answers that we discover under conscious we wonder darker past doors lie over father holds ways to another when will i know how far it goes when will i know father holds ways to another endless eyes distance growing ever infinity will answer as all nights will grow longer