

Urma, Inner Demon

Have to feel, it's sort of a human need
Stupid heart
Have to ask, keep surfing against my past
It might heal

Have to smile, there's someone in need outside
I should give
Have to trust, there's feeling beneath the dust
Could be real

Take the demons out of me
Take your demons out of me

Nobody guesses what I'm living
When the time falls asleep
Keep on dreaming of her lies
And forget about the earthly sunset
Of her eyes

Solitude claimed my way
Made me strong
Bless the loss, the grief and the friend I've lost
Proved me wrong

Take the demons out of me
Take your demons out of me

My father is watching from the ceiling
Holds me 'til I fall asleep
I'm still dreaming of his smile
Can't forget about the friendly sunshine
Of his eyes

And I cry from time to time
And I lie and pretend that everything it's alright