Useless ID, Everything Turned Red

I am still waiting for one happy ending I take back the secret, I want you to know Bright lights and dark screens won't save the last scene Maybe next time I see you won't be in my dreams

I wish that I had a chance to get to know you Everything turned red the first time I saw you

Full of affection to get your attention You read me your lines then I gave you this song You messed up this one, I better move on When it seems like we're heading in our separate ways

I wish that I had a chance to get to know you Everything turned red the first time I saw you I wish that I had a chance to get to know you Everything turned red the first time I saw you I wish that I had a chance to get to know you Everything turned red the first time I saw you I wish that I had a chance to get to know you Everything turned red the first time I saw you

Everything turned red the first time I saw you Everything turned red the first time I saw you

Everything turned, everything turned, everything turned red

Everything turned red the first time I saw you

Everything turned red...