

Van Morrison, If You & I Could Be As Two

'twas on a sunday and the autumn leaves were on the ground.
It kicked my heart when I saw you standing there in your dress of blue.
The storm was over, my ship sailed through.
What is this feeling, what can I do?

If you and I could be relieved
To walk and talk and be deceived
I'd give my all and all and more I would do, oh yeah,
If darling only you and I could be as two.

If we could dream and by our dreams
Sew this wicked world up at the seams
I'd give my life and more I would do
If darling only you and I could be as two.

Baby, do you remember
All the good times we had together
Walking through the park
Baby, then, then we could sing,
Gave you all my money,
Everything in the world that I had,
You told me that don't mean a thing.

If still in darkness we could run
Together there in that morning sun
I'd give my all, my life and everything to you, oh yeah,
If darling only you and I could be as two.

Could be as two, could be as two,
Could be as two, baby ...
