Vanessa Amorosi, Shine

You say, that you never had a mum and nobody needs you So cry, so cry, so cry You believe that life rolls by just to deceive you By your time, by your time You're getting old And the longer you take, the slower your pain will grow It will grow, it will grow You can close your eyes And hope that when you open them you've got a brand new life Then you'll find, you can't hide

You can give your life or you can lose your soul You can bang your head or you can drown in a hole Nothing lasts forever, but you can try Look around you, Everyone you see, everyone you know is gonna shine

Grow up and make the best of what you've got Of what you've got The days are going by and you're sittin' on your arse And you're wondering why, why, why

You can give your life, or You can lose your soul You can bang your head or you can drown in a hole Nothing lasts forever, but, you can try Look around you, Everyone you see, everyone you know is gonna shine

You say that you've never had a mum and nobody needs you So cry, so cry You believe that life rolls by just to deceive you By your time, by your time You're getting old And the longer you take the slower your pain will grow It'll grow, it'll grow You can close you eyes And hope that when you open them you've got a brand new life
