

Vanishing Point, In Company Of Darkness

Waiting for an illuminous dream to light the darkest day Confusing situations distract the words I have to say Paralysed by a vision blinded in it's quest to see me fall Empty rooms filled with moving shadows that gently grace the wall

Words in disarray
Illusions so far away

In company of darkness
I find myself lost along the way

Challenged through the deciding winds that are bottled deep within Getting closer to the fear that only I have seen Through the dark and scenic views lies a mystic stone
And upon it had read that you are not alone

Worlds in disarray
Illusions so far away