

Velvet Belly, Remember

Another year has gone by
You're quite satisfied
There's only one thing missing
And in your big bed
You lie awake at night

One's too young
And one too fragile
And there is always
Something you've been missing
Cause no one can match
The one you love the most

And you still think of her
You close your eyes to remember her
And how she felt
Warm against your skin

You shake your head
Cause you don't wanna talk about it
It's been a long time
And things are not the same any more
She's a memory you've been trying to forget

But you still think of her
You close your eyes to remember her
And how she felt
Warm against your skin