

Venus In Flames, Safeheaven

The mess we seem to be in could be cleaned up
If we start over again
It could be your place or mine
A safe heaven where we can hide

And I know that it's good to be coming home
And I know that I will not be left alone

How come we choose the right words to hit one another
Wherever it hurts
Water or gasoline
I can't decide which one it shall be

And I know that it's good to be coming home
And I know that I will not be left alone

Because you are my demon and I am your ghost
I guess we're surrounded by the ones that we miss the most
The house is empty and the doors are closed
I can't believe everyone's gone
Can someone tell me what's going on

And I know that it's good to be coming home
And I know that I will not be left alone

The mess we seem to be in could be cleaned up
If we start over again
