

Venus, Poison

Do you think it's poison, I believe it's a cure
Is it a common point between me and you
Are we defending our idiosyncrasy
Are we maybe thinking we still wanna get crazier

And we still need more time to understand ourselves
We are like we are, there's nothing else we meant
One day we shall have learnt how we have to like ourselves
And we'll share everything and we'll share everything else
We know we need more time to understand ourselves
We are just like we are, there's nothing else we meant
One day we shall have learnt how we have to love the best
And we'll give everything and we'll give all the rest

Can you think of a reason, I believe it's too pure
Too much imagination makes you feel insecured
Our backbones are bending drawing up to the ground
Our deepest feelings like joining lips of a wound
Do we run along life, running it sometimes
Do we surf on our worse lies, trying to make them die
Preserving our aloofness, pretending not to guess
It's a matter of decision, not a question of illusion
We know we need more time to understand ourselves
We are like we are, there's nothing else we meant
One day we shall have learnt how we have to like ourselves
And we'll share everything and we'll share everything else
