

Versaemerge, The Hider

My mouth has shut not to open up,
I've kept my back to them.
Those things they say blew my ears away,
I've stopped listening.
It's something new
you should try feeling
waking up on the other side.
These walls why do we need them?
I've hidden so well...
We're drawn to be what we wish to see,
you only half believe.
Now I have strayed, falling far away.
Let me clear my lungs show you everything I have done.
Gritting my teeth to perfection.
It's something new you should try
feeling waking up on the other side.
These walls why do we need them?
I've hidden so well...
It's something new you should try
feeling waking up on the other side.
These walls why do we need them?
I've hidden so well...
A fear of forgetting my face
because what you see is not me.
They twist my bones till
I'm gone... oh so gently.
It's something new you should try
feeling waking up on the other side.
These walls why do we need them?
I've hidden so well...
It's something new you should try
feeling waking up on the other side.
These walls why do we need them?
I've hidden so well...