

Versailles, Fallen Angel

I waited in the night,
By the castle gate I heard a noise,
He came out and startled me,
Grabbed my cloak and set me free
(And the doves flew by,
And the crows ascend into the sky,
And his piercing eyes are riding horseback through the night.)
We went into the forest,
There we saw an angel,
Burning up she wept white tears,
Disappointed she disappeared.

Rephrase

Wandering we found a space,
Disappeared without a trace,
Speak to me of nothing here,
For I no longer have any fear.

Rephrase

And I waited a thousand years for this time,
I'm awestruck to the point where I am blind,
And I waited a thousand years for this time,
My tears flood across an ocean wide.
