

Victor Ly, This Moment Is Ours

What if the future is closer than you think?
What if it's here the next time you blink?
A thousand things linger
in both our minds,
And we begin to wonder if we can still run and hide.
I cannot start to imagine what will happen in the next hour, But we both know that this moment is ours.

We cannot tell what our futures will hold,
For there is no way
to look down the road.
I don't know what will happen
when you go your own way,
But we still have this moment,
we still have today.

What is going to happen when the music refuses to play?
If I stare back at you will you turn away?
When I open my eyes
will you still be here?
Or will I once again
have to shed lonely tears?

Hold on to this moment
for that is all that exists, Look towards the sky
and let's both take a risk.
Open your eyes and wish upon the stars,
For they are there to tell us that this moment is truly ours.