

Villains To The Masses Heroes To The Holy, Jess

The audience is full, the stage is set
As our hero makes his appearance
Accompanied by a magnificent symphony
He dances all alone, he dances a solo
Just the way the audience likes him best
As the second act begins, and the curtain opens
They symphony plays a gorgeous melody never played before
But the music only accents
The gorgeous girl who's made her appearance
Tempting our hero to dance alone no more

What's wrong Cheer up
Everything will be alright
Love me Serve me
And I'll dance with you tonight
Hold on to your seats
For Jessica's ballet in C

For a while it was stunning, they moved in perfect harmony
Until other guys stole our hero's spot light
She, she got distracted Our hero remained inactive
Waiting for her to dance with him some more
After a while, our hero got angry, told the girl he was done dancing
Soon she wanted her fave dance partner back.
He gave her another chance
The two danced and danced
Until again she went astray and broke our hero's heart in half

Love, is such a messed up, funny word
And coming from you It never felt so good
Please don't disappear two months is way to long not to see you.

What's wrong Cheer up
Everything will be alright
Love me Serve me
And I'll dance with you tonight
Hold on to your seats
For Jessica's ballet in C