

Vincent Tony, Closer To Your Dreams

She spends a lot of lonely days
Storing all her dreams away
Down deep she knows they may not see the light
She paints the color of her room
In the darkest shades of blue
And never lets the mirror catch her eyes
Just beyond this world of sorrow and of pain
Lie the shores of hope where seasons always change
Through the eyes of love I'll try and help you see
The moment of believing brings you closer to your dreams
She's wishing on a better life someone else's paradise
Her movie plays in silence all alone Emotions are a fragile line and healing takes the longest time within a single moment
a life can change
Just beyond this world of sorrow and of pain
Lie the shores of hope where seasons always change
Through the eyes of love I'll try and help you see
The moment of believing brings you closer to your dreams
Just beyond this world of sorrow and of pain
Lie the shores of hope where seasons always change
Through the eyes of love I'll try and help you see
The moment of believing brings you closer to your dreams
The moment of believing brings you closer to your dreams