

Violent Delight, Shattered

Did you ever care about what I said
Did it ever matter
But then, you think about it again
And it changes in the end

Did you ever here what I said
Does it even matter
And if we were all the same
Would your dreams be shattered

It seems to me
Your what you see
When you look inside me
All those words
So full of pride
Will always hit you in the end

Did you ever here what I said
Does it even matter
And if we were all the same
Would your dreams be shattered

If you ever heard
Anything but you
You learn to feel
You'd see the truth
But you always hide
So far away
That in the end
your lies become your truths

Did you ever here what I said
Does it even matter
And if we were all the same
Would your dreams be shattered