

Virus, Still Fighting For A Future

Still Fighting For A Future!

In the early 70's the bands were fking lame
The music had no message and the bands were fking tame
The kids they had no future unemployment on the rise
No one listen to the kids or the people's cries
Then out of the garbage a new voice was heard
There was a cry out for punk and now the kids were heard
They took it to the street and then it hit the wall
Punk was now a driving force the chaos fking stirred

Still fighting, Still fighting.. for a future

Then out of the 80's a new breed emerged
Pissed off, angry, fking kids the voice was fking heard
Voice of a generation they speak to us today
Inspiring us to stand strong and have our fking say
Inspired by the elders they took punk to new levels
Pissed off, angry, loud and fast, they smashed the fking levels
The press said punk was dead so they took it to the streets
This was 1982, the kids out on the streets

Still fighting, Still fighting.. for a future

The music saved our lives and forced us into battle
A battle we can't win a never ending struggle
Punk opened up our eyes to so many fked up things
But we can never be at peace we're constantly at war
A war against the system, a war for what is right
We'll play our music, have our say, we're gonna fking fight
We'll carry on the banner for what punk should be and was
Even if we're the fking last we won't give up our cause

Still fighting, Still fighting.. for a future
