<lyrics>

Everyone, while wandering, is looking for an answer
If we were together, even time could be under our control

Or so I thought back then Instead time flows on, even the colors of the sky have changed,
And our hearts passed right on by each other

In the never-ending course of the seasons,
Wouldn't it be nice if we could freeze time at that one moment?
The two of us, while still wandering,
Are searching for love in the far corners of the darkness

What color is the sky right now where you are?
As it is I can't ask again
As I continue to forget the important things in life, my heart becomes a little confused

Within our dazzling galaxy, your heart is drawing in and approaching me
The two of us are just looking up at the stars, and in this moment, the colors of the sky are all blending together

Don't let yourself forget the important things in life
A heart that knows no impurity

In the never-ending course of the seasons, an hour will come when this planet will vanish into nothing and all the things in my heart will be restored to zero as I stare on with only the eyes of a boy But for now we're together again, and toward the end of that dream we start walking, hand in hand, never letting go
