

Voice Of The Beehive, Moonblind

(By Tracey Bryn & David Motion)
(in loving memory of Marlon, 1958 - 1993)

There is somewhere in the sun where we can run all day
And when it's warm and we are tired in cool shade we will lay
Until the stars on us descend and we're left in the dark
In the night a sweet perfume and although we'll be parting
You'll leave me...

(chorus)

Moonblind - you will leave me moonblind
I'll look for you behind each star, raise my eyes to Where you are until I'm moonblind
There is a vacant sky, beneath I slowly sigh
Left to love the sight alone - knowing you are finally home
To the silence I will speak and though you won't be there
I know you'll be listening from beyond the night somewhere
You'll leave me

Anywhere you lay your head my love you will find rest
Anywhere you go, you will find me
You will haunt me, you will remind me
