

Voice Of The Beehive, New Day

(By Tracey Bryn, Peter Vettese & Melissa Belland)

The night's so big I feel like a shadow waiting in the corner
Nowhere to hide away safe
Somehow light will always find me
And tell me how to brave a darkened silence
Anyday now the clouds will part there will be sun

In the new day I'll find things aren't so bad at all
The day will carry me like water in a fall
The sky is endless and it's just for me to see

I close my eyes in silence, held my stillness
Dark and sweet now
And though things might seem tarnished,
Something will shine for me somehow
And then there's light, remind me there's tomorrow
It could be mine
The clouds part there will be sun

In the new day I'll find things aren't so bad at all
The day will carry me like water in a fall
The sky is endless and it's just for me to see
And it'll be all mine to just reach and grab hold of
Don't need a hand to take me,
Don't need a perfect love and the darkness
Will be just a memory

The sky, the wind kicks up my adrenaline
Yesterday blue skies turned grey
You know I felt I'd lost my way
Now the sun, and the sky beauty so real
It can't be a lie, lying back, not feeling blue
Stretch out your arms, let the sun shine through.
